Infant Class Size Legislation Appeals
An Independent Appeal Panel must consider all the following matters when considering an appeal that would cause a breach of infant class size legislation. <ul style="list-style-type: none">a. whether the admission of an additional child/additional children would breach the infant class limit; andb. whether the admission arrangements (including the area's co-ordinated admission arrangements) complied with the mandatory requirements of the School Admissions Code and Part 3 of the School Admissions Code Part 3 of the SSFA Act 1998; andc. whether the admission arrangements were correctly and impartially applied in the case(s) in question; andd. whether the decision to refuse admission was one which a reasonable admission authority would have made in the circumstances of the case. The Independent Appeal Panel may uphold the appeal where: <ul style="list-style-type: none">a. it finds that the admission of additional children would not breach the infant class size limit; orb. it finds that the admission arrangements did not comply with admissions law or had not been correctly and impartially applied and the child would have been offered a place if the arrangements had complied or had been correctly and impartially applied; orc. where it decides that the decision to refuse admission was not one which a reasonable admission authority would have made in the circumstances of the case. I can confirm that none of the above points apply and that to admit additional pupils will breach the infant class size legislation.
